“Valve World” series of exhibitions and conferences started in Europe in 1998, and spread to the Americas, Asia, and other major markets around the world. Since its establishment it has been widely recognized as the most influential and professional valve focused event in the industry. The Valve World Asia Expo & Conference was first held in China in 2005. To date, the biennial event has successfully taken place in Shanghai and Suzhou nine times and been extremely beneficial for all those who have had the chance to participate. It has played an important role in connecting the supply and demand markets, and established a diverse platform for manufacturers, end users, EPC companies, and third-party institutes to network and form business relationships. The decision to move the event from China to Singapore stems from the knowledge that it will not only create more business opportunities, but will also foster new avenues for growth in the valve market.

Southeast Asia is an economic force to be reckoned with when viewed globally. In recent years, most countries in Southeast Asia, such as: Indonesia, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, the Philippines, Vietnam, Myanmar, Cambodia, Laos, etc. are actively developing infrastructure projects and growing the overall economy. They are gradually becoming a popular area for import and export trade and the implementation of major projects, making it an important region where global projects can gather and market new prospects.

The Conference section aims at the hot topics in the development of the industry, as well as the main challenges faced by players to carry out inter-industry discussions, and create a professional communication platform to make business communication more accurate and indepth. The organizer presets various forms of discussion: special lecture, sub-forum discussion, group discussion, interactive Q&A, etc.
